

BUREAU OF JUSTICE ASSISTANCE FACT SHEET

ANNUAL GOVERNORS' PRISON RAPE ELIMINATION ACT CERTIFICATION AND ASSURANCE SUBMISSION

About the Prison Rape Elimination Act

Ending sexual abuse and sexual harassment in confinement facilities benefits all Americans. Sexual abuse makes facilities dangerous for staff, inmates, residents, and detainees.¹ This serious problem also consumes large amounts of taxpayer dollars for medical treatment and investigations, and undermines rehabilitative efforts, which in turn threatens public safety when inmates are released. The Prison Rape Elimination Act (PREA) states: "Prison rape endangers the public safety by making brutalized inmates more likely to commit crimes when they are released." See: 34 U.S.C. § 30307.

PREA is intended to make confinement facilities free from sexual abuse and its threat. It requires the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ) to prioritize the prevention and elimination of this serious problem. PREA also mandates that correctional facilities across the country implement policies that have "zero tolerance" for sexual abuse and practices to prevent, address, and respond to it. See: 34 U.S.C. § 30307.

Certification and Assurance Overview

Each year, PREA gives state and territorial Governors and the Mayor of the District of Columbia the option to submit to DOJ either a certification that all confinement facilities under their operational control are in full compliance with the National Standards to Prevent, Detect, and Respond to Prison Rape (Standards) or to issue an assurance that they will use not less than 5 percent of certain DOJ grant funds to come into full compliance with the Standards in the future. See: 34 U.S.C. § 30307.

States and territories that do not submit a certification or an assurance are subject to a 5 percent reduction in certain DOJ grant funds that they would otherwise receive. There are two DOJ grant programs (or portions thereof) subject to this statutory provision: (1) the Bureau of Justice Assistance's Edward Byrne Memorial Justice Assistance Grant Program and (2) the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention's Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act Formula Grant Program.

Certification and Assurance Submission Process

The Governors' annual certification and assurance submissions apply to the most recent PREA audit year ending on August 19. The annual deadline for certification and assurance submissions is October 15. In the late summer of each year, DOJ issues a letter to all state and territorial Governors and the Mayor of the District of Columbia detailing their options under PREA and providing instructions for how to submit a certification or assurance to DOJ. Below is a timeline for the annual Governors' certification and assurance submission process.

State of the PREA Nation

Since the first submissions in 2014, there has been an upward trend in the number of states and territories submitting certifications of full compliance, whereas the number of jurisdictions opting to submit neither a certification nor an assurance has decreased. The Bureau of Justice Assistance's State PREA Submission website provides a map that reflects Governors' submissions for each audit year in a 3-year cycle and links to final PREA audit reports on confinement facilities identified by state and territorial Governors as under their operational control. See: <https://data.ojp.usdoj.gov/stories/s/e58i-aehtm>.

What to Consider When Making a Certification Determination

When deciding whether or not to submit a certification of full compliance with the Standards, the following considerations and requirements apply:

- "The Governor's certification shall apply to all facilities in the State under the operational control of the State's executive branch, including facilities operated by private entities on behalf of the State's executive branch."

See: 28 C.F.R. § 115.501\(b\). Therefore, when making a certification determination, the Governor must assess compliance for all facilities under their operational control, including, but not limited to, those facilities audited during the most recent audit year.

- In determining whether the state is in full compliance, "the Governor shall consider the results of the most recent agency audits." See: 28 C.F.R. § 115.501\(a\).
- All confinement facilities subject to the Standards must be audited by a DOJ-certified auditor at least once every 3 years, with one-third of each facility type operated by an agency, or private organization on behalf of an agency, to be audited every year. See: 28 C.F.R. § 115.401.
- A certification applies to the timeframe covering the most recent audit year; therefore, before a certification can be submitted, all facilities under the executive branch's operational control must have been in full compliance with all the Standards, including the audit Standard 28 C.F.R. § 115.401\(b\), as of August 19. Only audits completed by August 19 for a given audit year may be considered when determining compliance with Standard 115.401(b).

Governors' Certification and Assurance Submissions

* Prior to FY 2016, the deadline for Governors to submit certifications and assurances was in early May, months before the end of the audit year on August 19. In order to shift the submission deadline to occur after the end of the audit year, DOJ implemented a transition year in 2016 requesting that Governors make two certification and assurance submissions for Audit Year 2 of Cycle 1.

- Pursuant to formal guidance issued by the DOJ PREA Working Group in the form of frequently asked questions (FAQs) on the PREA Resource Center website, DOJ intends audits to be a primary, but not the only, factor in determining whether a state is in full compliance. Neither the PREA statute nor the Standards restrict the sources of information that Governors may use in deciding whether to certify full compliance with the Standards. See: www.prearesourcecenter.org/frequently-asked-questions/what-basis-can-governor-make-certification-decision-it-audit-finding.
- DOJ recognizes that in some states, sexual abuse and sexual harassment investigations are conducted by agencies different from the agencies that confine inmates. Formal guidance indicates that: “To the extent that these state agencies investigate sexual abuse or sexual harassment in covered confinement facilities, compliance with the National PREA Standards by these agencies also falls within the scope of the Governor’s certification.” See: www.prearesourcecenter.org/frequently-asked-questions/does-governors-certification-regarding-full-compliance-national-prea. Therefore, in order for Governors to submit a certification of full compliance, these external state investigative agencies must be fully compliant with the PREA Standards that apply to them. DOJ developed the PREA Compliance Checklist for External State Investigative Agencies: Prisons and Jails to serve as a tool for Governors and others to assess compliance with the PREA Standards by these external agencies.
