Tribal Civil and Criminal Legal Assistance Program

July–December 2013

This report was prepared by Jimmy Steyee, CSR, Incorporated under contract #GS-10F-0114L from the Bureau of Justice Assistance.

TCCLA Program Performance Report

The Tribal Civil and Criminal Legal Assistance (TCCLA) Program, administered by the Bureau of Justice Assistance (BJA), was created to enhance the operations of and improve access to tribal justice systems. The program also offers training and technical assistance (TTA) for development and enhancement of tribal justice systems. Funding is awarded in three categories: (1) Tribal Civil Legal Assistance, (2) Tribal Criminal Legal Assistance, and (3) Tribal Justice Training and Technical Assistance.

Authorized by 25 U.S.C. 3651, et seq. (Public Law 106-559), the TCCLA program awards are targeted to nonprofit organizations with 501(c)(3) tax status, including tribal enterprises that serve to strengthen and improve the representation of indigent defendants in criminal cases and indigent respondents in civil causes of action under the jurisdiction of Indian tribes. Grantees were awarded TCCLA funds during federal fiscal years (FY) 2010–2013 (Table 1).

Table 1. TCCLA Grant Funds by Award Year: FY2010–FY2013

Fiscal Year	Federal Award Amount (Dollars)
2010	$3,182,271
2011	2,436,221
2012	1,787,659
2013	1,900,000
Total	$9,306,151

- Over $9 million in Federal TCCLA funds have been awarded since 2010.

For the purposes of this report, only grants awarded in FY 2010 through FY 2012 were examined, because the FY 2013 awards had not yet become operational. Awards were made to grantees providing either criminal or civil legal services or offering TTA services.

From July–December 2013, TCCLA grantees with open and active awards submitted performance data in the Performance Measurement Tool (PMT). This Program Performance Report (PPR) is divided into three sections: (1) hiring personnel and legal code development, (2) civil legal assistance services, and (3) criminal legal assistance services. The following is based on self-reported data from grantees and subgrantees for the July–September 2013 and October–December 2013 quarters that have active awards. Table 2 shows the number of operational awards and subgrantee awards by quarter.

Quarter	Grantee Awards	Subgrantee Awards*	Total
July–September 2013	5	52	57
October–December 2013	4	43	47

* One grantee manages all of the subgrantee awards in this program. Subgrantee funds are awarded to state Indian Legal Services programs, which are then used to offer legal assistance services to tribes and tribal members.

An award is considered operational for PMT reporting purposes if the grantee or subgrantee used BJA program funds to perform grant activities that were outlined in their application. Overall, during the two quarters examined, the number of grantees reporting data decreased from 5 to 4 and the number of subgrantee awards decreased from 52 to 43.

Hiring Personnel and Legal Code Development

Hiring Personnel

Program funds may be used to hire or contract with staff to offer legal services or to manage and coordinate the program. Table 3 shows the number of grantees that hired or contracted with individuals to offer legal assistance during the reporting periods examined.

Table 3. Number of Grantees and Subgrantees that Hired or Retained Employees, Recruited Unpaid Volunteers, or Signed Contracts with Any Individuals to Offer Legal Assistance: July–December 2013

Quarter	Frequency	Percentage
July–September 2013 (N=57)	26	46%
October–December 2013 (N=47)	18	38%

During the July–September 2013 quarter, almost half (46 percent) of the grantees and subgrantees hired personnel; this decreased to 38 percent during the next quarter. Table 4 shows the number of individuals hired or contracted.

Table 4. Staff Hired or Contracted: July–December 2013

	Employees		Contract Personnel		Non-paid Staff
	Full-time	Part-time	Full-time	Part-time	Full-time	Part-time

Other	2	0	0	0	0	0
Total	112	50	0	3	9	3

Most of the grant funds spent on personnel are for full-time or part-time attorneys.

- Of the 112 full-time employees, 68 (61 percent) are attorneys.
- Of the 50 part-time employees, 33 (66 percent) are attorneys.
- Other personnel paid for with TCCLA program funds include administrative assistants, paralegals, and lay advocates, among a few others.

Legal Code Development

Grantees may also use funds to assist tribes with legal code development and revision, with the intent of strengthening tribal justice systems. Table 5 shows the number of tribes that worked on updating or developing tribal law codes or policies.

Table 5. Number of Grantees or Subgrantees Working on New or Revised Tribal Codes, and Number of Codes: July–December 2013

	July–September 2013 (N=57)	October–December 2013 (N=47)	Total
Number of Tribes That Developed New or Updated Existing Civil or Criminal Codes or Policies	10	11	21*
Number of New Civil or Criminal Codes	12	10	22
Number of Updated or Amended Civil or Criminal Codes	65	12	77

*Some tribes may be double counted in this quarter if they worked on developing legal codes in both quarters.

- Overall, 22 new civil and criminal codes were implemented and 77 updated or amended civil and criminal codes were added.

Civil Legal Assistance – Direct Legal Services to Individuals

Grantees and subgrantees offer civil legal assistance services to individuals who qualify for the aid. Working with attorneys and Indian Legal Services agencies, individuals apply for legal services. Table 6 shows the number of active grantees or subgrantees that offered civil legal services during the 2 quarters.

Table 6. Number of Grantees or Subgrantees Offering Civil Legal Services: July–December 2013

Quarter	Frequency	Percent
July–September 2013 (N=27)	23	85%
October–December 2013 (N=24)	20	83%

- Of the grantees or subgrantees that received BJA funds to offer civil legal services, 83 percent to 85 percent were active in July–December 2013.

Grantees or subgrantees offering legal assistance services receive requests from individuals, who are then assessed for eligibility to receive those services. Some individuals are ineligible because they do not meet tribal enrollment or financial requirements, or their legal case does not meet the requirements for assistance. Table 7 shows the number of new cases, the number of potential clients requesting assistance, and the number of those who were found ineligible.

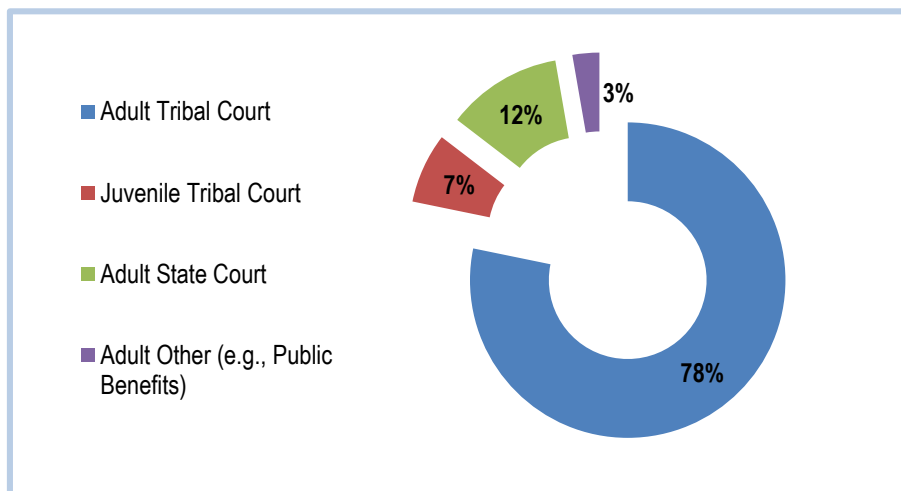

Table 7. Number of New Civil Cases, Clients Found Ineligible, and Clients Who Applied for Civil Legal Assistance: July–December 2013

	July–September 2013 (N=23)		October–December 2013 (N=20)		Total
	Sum	Mean	Sum	Mean	Sum
Number of New Civil Cases	319	13.9	198	9.9	517

Clients Who Applied for Civil Legal Assistance	1,680	73.0	893	44.7	2,573
Clients Found Ineligible (%)	33%		74%		47.1%

- Overall, over 500 new civil cases were given legal assistance during the 6-month period examined. This equates to about 14 new cases per grantee in July–September 2013 and 10 in October–December 2013.
- The percentage of clients found ineligible increased from 33 percent in July–September 2013 to 74 percent in October–December 2013.

- About 78 percent of new civil cases are in the adult tribal court’s jurisdiction, with an additional 7 percent in the juvenile tribal court jurisdiction.
- About 12 percent of cases are in adult state courts.

In addition to the new cases taken on by grantees and subgrantees, ongoing cases account for most legal cases worked on by grant-funded staff. Table 8 shows the total number of cases worked on by grantees during the two reporting periods, the total number of cases closed, and the number of staff hours worked.

Table 8. Total Civil Cases, Civil Cases Closed, and Staff Hours: July–December 2013

	July–September 2013 (N=23)		October–December 2013 (N=20)		Total Sum

Total Cases	1,235	53.7	1,152	57.6	2,387*
Total Closed Cases	262	12.0	301	9.9	473
Staff Hours	5,596	243.3	5,135	256.8	10,731

*Some cases are double counted when they are worked on in both quarters.

- On average, the number of civil cases per grantee increased slightly to 57.6 (October–December 2013) from 53.7 (July–September 2013), despite a drop in the total number of cases from 1,235 to 1,152.
- Overall, grantees and subgrantees closed 473 civil cases during the 6-month period.
- Staff worked over 10,700 hours giving legal assistance on civil matters.

- The most common type of civil case closed includes family cases, such as divorce or adult guardianship.
- Family cases closed are followed by juvenile cases closed, such as child support, custody, paternity, and neglect.

- Over 28 percent of civil cases were closed with “limited action,” meaning the TCCLA-funded attorney or staff person took limited action(s) on behalf of the client that addressed the client’s uncomplicated legal problem. Examples include drafting a letter, or communicating by other means with a third party; or preparing a simple legal document.
- Twenty-two percent of the cases were closed with “counsel and advice.” This means that the lawyer ascertained and reviewed relevant facts, exercised judgment in interpreting the particular facts presented by the client and in applying the relevant laws the facts presented, and counseled the client concerning his or her legal problem.

- Over 25 percent of the cases were closed by a court decision; almost 15 percent of court decisions were contested and almost 11 percent uncontested.
- Another 20 percent of cases were classified in the “other closure reason” category.

Criminal Legal Assistance- Direct Individual Indigent Defense Services

Grantees and subgrantees also offer criminal legal assistance services to individuals who qualify for the aid. Working with attorneys and Indian Legal Services agencies, individuals apply for legal assistance services on criminal matters. Table 9 shows the number of active grantees or subgrantees offering criminal legal assistance services during the two quarters.

Table 9. Number of Grantees and Subgrantees Offering Criminal Legal Services: July–December 2013

Quarter	Frequency	Percent
July–September 2013 (N=30)	28	93%
October–December 2013 (N=23)	21	91%

- The number of grantees or subgrantees using BJA funds for criminal legal assistance services decreased from 28 in July–September 2013 to 21 in October–December 2013.

As previously mentioned, grantees and subgrantees offering legal assistance services receive requests from individuals, who are then assessed for eligibility to receive those services. Again, some individuals are ineligible because they do not meet tribal enrollment or financial requirements, or their legal case does not meet the requirements for assistance. Table 10 shows the number of defendants requesting criminal legal assistance and the number of those individuals found ineligible.

Table 10. Defendants Who Applied for Legal Assistance and Those Found Ineligible: July–December 2013

	July–September 2013 (N=30)		October–December 2013 (N=23)		Total

Defendants Who Applied for Criminal Legal Assistance	705	25.2	750	35.7	1455
Defendants Found Ineligible (%)	37%		56%		47.2%

- 1,455 individuals requested criminal legal assistance services. This averages to about 30 potential defendant applicants per grantee or subgrantee per quarter.
- 687 (47 percent) of those individuals were found ineligible.

Table 11 shows the new cases given criminal legal assistance services during July–December 2013 by case type (felony or misdemeanor).

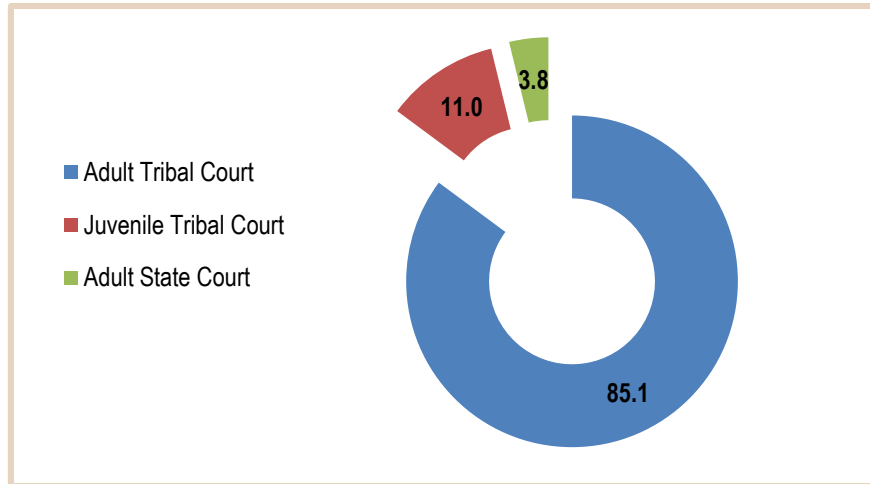

Table 11. New Criminal Cases Offered Legal Assistance: July–December 2013

Misdemeanor Cases	415	14.8	296	14.1	711
New Misdemeanor Cases (%)	97%		97%		97%

- On average, each grantee or subgrantee took on about 15 new criminal cases this quarter.
- About 97 percent of these cases were misdemeanors.

- About 96 percent of the criminal cases given legal assistance services with BJA funds are in a tribal court—85 percent in adult tribal court and 11 percent in juvenile tribal court.

Table 12. Total Cases, Total Cases Closed, and Total Staff Hours of Legal Services for Defendants: July–December 2013

	July–September 2013 (N=30)		October–December 2013 (N=23)		Total Sum

Staff Hours of Legal Assistance for Defendants	6,246	223.1	6,228	296.6	12,474

*Some cases are double counted in each quarter when they are worked on in both quarters.

- On average, each grantee or subgrantee worked on 43 criminal cases in July–September 2013 and 63 in October–December 2013 (Table 12).
- 973 criminal cases were closed in July–December 2013.
- Staff worked over 12,400 hours giving legal assistance on criminal cases.

As previously noted, cases are closed for many reasons. Figure 5 shows the distribution of closed criminal cases by closure type.

- In over 38 percent of the closed criminal cases, a plea deal was reached.
- In almost 20 percent of the closed criminal cases, the closure reason was listed as “other.”

Client/Defendant Satisfaction

Grant-funded attorneys are asked to have their clients rate their overall satisfaction with the legal services they received (Table 13). Client/defendant participation in the survey is voluntary, resulting in low response rates.

Table 13. Individuals Who Assessed Legal Services as Satisfactory or Better: July–December 2013

Quarter	Number of Individuals Who Assessed Legal Services They Received	Number of Individuals Who Rated Legal Services as Satisfactory or Better	Satisfactory or Better (%)
July–September 2013 (N=22)	137	135	98.5%
October–December 2013 (N=23)	100	98	98.0%

- Of the 1,446 closed civil and criminal cases, 237 clients assessed the legal services they received by participating in the survey.
- Of those clients, over 98 percent thought the legal assistance they received was satisfactory or better.
- These results must be interpreted with caution due to the low response rate. The overall satisfaction rate may not reflect all individuals who received legal assistance services under the TCCLA program.

Observations

The intent of the TCCLA program is to enhance tribal justice systems and improve access to those systems. This is accomplished by improving the representation of indigent defendants in criminal cases and indigent respondents in civil causes of action under the jurisdiction of Indian tribes. The PMT data suggests that BJA is meeting the intent of the legislation. The following key observations drawn from the PMT data show support for the goals of the program.

- 1,251 new civil and criminal cases were given legal assistance during the 6-month period examined.
- 1,446 civil and criminal cases were closed during the 6-month period examined.
- 23,205 hours of legal assistance were given to civil clients and defendants during the 6-month period. This is equivalent to about 22 full-time employees.

- About 90 percent of the cases given legal assistance services were in tribal courts.
- 112 full-time attorneys were hired using grant funds; 68 percent of those are attorneys.
- Overall, 22 new civil and criminal codes were implemented and 77 updated or amended civil and criminal codes were added.
