Program Description

Overview

The Department of Justice is committed to advancing work that promotes civil rights, increases access to justice, supports crime victims, protects the public from crime and evolving threats, and builds trust between law enforcement and the community.

The Collaborative Approaches toward Preventing and Addressing Hate Crime — Demonstration Projects supports efforts of state, local, and tribal law enforcement and prosecution agencies and their partners in developing comprehensive approaches to address a precipitous increase in hate crimes. This approach must include conducting outreach, educating practitioners and the public, enhancing victim reporting strategies, and investigating and prosecuting hate crimes committed on the basis of the victim's perceived or actual race, color, religion, national origin, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity, or disability. With the precipitous increase in hate crimes, partnerships with local and state-level nonprofit organizations are highly encouraged.

Statutory Authority

Any award under the solicitation will be made under the statutory authority set forth at 34 U.S.C. 10157(b).

Specific Information

The Collaborative Approaches toward Preventing and Addressing Hate Crime — Demonstration Projects supports state, local, and tribal law enforcement and prosecution agencies in developing comprehensive approaches to address a precipitous increase in hate crimes. As part of the Justice Assistance Grant (JAG) Program, the authorization provides that funds may be used to combat, address, or otherwise respond to precipitous or extraordinary increases in crime, or in a type or types of crime. Applicants must:

- Identify a hate crime or type(s) of hate crime that have precipitously increased within the jurisdiction, which will be addressed by the proposed solution.
- Identify the period of time during which the relevant category of hate crime increased.
- Provide evidence substantiating the claimed increase.

In this case, the Department is seeking jurisdictions seeking to develop a response to the increasing issue of hate crimes, with a focus on jurisdictions experiencing significant challenges that require a larger scale approach. This comprehensive approach specifically addressing hate crimes must include outreach to and education of the public, victims, and their staff and partners. Hate crimes (sometimes called bias-motivated crimes) are criminal offenses motivated by some form of bias toward the victims on the basis of the victim's perceived or actual race, color, religion, national origin, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity, or disability. These projects can also be used to address crimes related to serial offenders of hate crimes (having or suspected of having committed more than one violent hate crime).

According to the U.S. Bureau of Justice Statistics' (BJS) National Crime Victimization Survey (NCVS):

- U.S. residents experienced an average of 250,000 hate crime victimizations each year from 2004 to 2015.
- The majority (99 percent) of victims cited offenders' use of hate language as evidence of a hate crime.
- During the 5-year aggregate period from 2011 to 2015, racial bias was the most common motivation for hate crimes (48 percent).
- About 54 percent of hate crime victimizations were not reported to police during 2011 to 2015.

BJS NCVS Report: Hate Crime Victimization, 2004-2015 \(bjs.gov\)

Hate crimes can be more violent and involve greater victim injury as compared to other victimizations, yet are substantially underreported. Victim reluctance to contact law enforcement may arise from perceptions of police bias, distrust of law enforcement or the criminal justice system, or barriers such as language or concerns about immigration status. As law enforcement agencies use data to inform their strategies and allocation of resources, this can pose a unique challenge in addressing hate crimes. This underreporting and identification of hate crimes can also grow out of a lack of training and understanding on the part of law enforcement and prosecutors, resulting in the inability to identify, report, or charge these crimes, or to effectively investigate or prosecute these cases. To address these barriers, this program offers resources to support outreach, build partnerships, and improve education to identify and report hate crimes, as well as support the investigation and prosecution of these cases. These efforts can include building systems for the long-term reporting and tracking of hate crime trends.

Hate crimes have a devastating effect beyond the harm inflicted on any one victim. They reverberate through families, communities, and the entire nation as others fear that they too may be threatened, attacked, or forced from their homes because of what they look like, who they are, where they worship, who they love, or whether they have a disability. Like other crimes, the vast majority of hate crimes in the United States are investigated under state law and prosecuted by local, state, and tribal law enforcement authorities.

For example, a precipitous increase in hate crimes has been seen in Asian-American communities, where anti-Asian hate crimes increased by nearly 150 percent in 2020. This funding is designed to assist jurisdictions in addressing this issue, and to assist other victims or communities overall who are facing an increase in hate crimes. With the efforts of state and local agencies including law enforcement, this program explores opportunities to support and encourage the establishment of partnerships with community-based organizations to prevent discrimination, bullying, harassment, and hate crimes, as well as expand the collection of data and public reporting regarding hate incidents against such individuals.

According to U.S. Bureau of Justice Statistics' Hate Crime Victimization Report:

Approximately 54 percent of 54 percent of hate crime victimizations were not reported to police from 2011 to 2015.

- The most common reason for not reporting to police was that the victimization was handled another way (41 percent), such as privately or through a non-law enforcement official (e.g., apartment manager or school official).
- About a quarter (23 percent) of hate crime victims who did not report the crime believed that police would not want to be bothered or get involved, would be inefficient or ineffective, or would cause trouble for the victim.
- About 1 in 5 (19 percent) crime victims stated that the victimization was not important enough to report to police.

Citation: Hate Crime Victimization, 2004-2015 \(bjs.gov\)

Law enforcement personnel play a vital role in reporting and combating hate crimes. The tone at the top sets a law enforcement agency's values and climate. Establishing the tone at the top and strengthening it over time requires concerted effort. To be credible, law enforcement leaders must openly and continually communicate agency values and establish principles for how they expect work to be done. Ultimately, a leader's behavior tells other officers and deputies what counts and what is rewarded and disciplined. These perceptions have been affected in the LGBTQ community, for example, where studies were completed examining victim-police interactions in LGBTQ hate crime cases, with a focus on reporting of such crimes by victims, perceived police bias among victims who did not report their victimization, and differential police behavior with victims who reported their victimization. LGBTQ bias victims continued to perceive the police as biased; however, results do not significantly differ between sexual-orientation bias victims and victims of other types of crime regarding police reporting and differential police response. Law enforcement agencies must demonstrate behaviors that promote zero tolerance for prejudice and bias throughout the agency and in their communities in order to support reporting and prosecution of hate crimes. Increasing community-law enforcement collaboration to address hate crimes, including partnerships with civil rights and community organizations, is highly encouraged.

The federal government also has an important role to play in addressing hate crimes through collaboration with state, local, and tribal partners. Eliminating hate crimes and bias-motivated violence from communities and the country is one of the Department's highest priorities. The Department's Hate Crimes Enforcement and Prevention Initiative is charged with coordinating DOJ's efforts to eradicate hate crimes, in part by facilitating training, outreach, and education to law enforcement agencies and the public at the federal, state, local, and tribal levels. This work is collaborative and includes the Department of Justice's Civil Rights Division, the Community Relations Service (CRS), U.S. Attorneys' Offices, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Office of Community Policing, and other agencies in the Office of Justice Programs such as the Office for Victims of Crime and the Bureau of Justice Statistics. For more information on the work of these agencies and opportunities to build on this work, see: www.justice.gov/hatecrimes. As such, projects will be expected to collaborate with the local United States Attorney's Office to ensure resources are aligned and working together in a model fashion.

Identifying, investigating, and reporting hate crimes when they occur helps ensure that data are complete and accurate, and allows appropriate resources to be directed toward solving and preventing hate crimes. Law enforcement and prosecutors' offices are a key part of this strategy, and through the Hate Crimes Program, can lead collaborative approaches that prevent and respond to these crimes. A comprehensive report was issued in 2020 entitled Improving the Identification, Investigation, and Reporting of Hate Crimes: A Summary Report of the Law Enforcement Roundtable (August 2020). The "Roundtable Report" sets forth key recommendations and action steps to combat hate crimes and can be found here: <https://cops.usdoj.gov/RIC/ric.php?page=detail&id=COPS-W0895>.

Goals, Objectives, Deliverables, and Timeline

Goal

To comprehensively address precipitous increases in hate crimes, which includes increased public awareness and reporting of hate crimes and enhanced law enforcement and prosecution strategies to prevent and respond to hate crimes, bringing justice for hate crime victims and other stakeholders.

Objectives

- Build strong collaborations between law enforcement and prosecution and community-based organizations — including schools, colleges, and universities — to conduct outreach and education to persons and groups at risk for the hate crimes for which the jurisdiction is seeing a precipitous increase.
- Build comprehensive approaches that expand and enhance strategies — including tools, policies, and procedures — to increase the reporting, identification, and charging of hate crimes, including victim reporting.
- Enhance the capacity of law enforcement and prosecutors to prevent and address hate crimes through education, training, and tools for the field to investigate and prosecute hate crime cases.
- Enhance collaboration between federal, state, local, and tribal law enforcement and prosecution agencies in their investigation and prosecution of hate crimes.
- Prepare partners to be able to fully understand and address hate crimes through leadership and assessment of organizational culture.

Deliverables

Deliverables will include documentation of the implementation of a comprehensive approach that enhanced awareness of and reporting by the public related to hate crimes and available resources in the applicant jurisdiction; increased the skills of law enforcement and prosecutors to identify, investigate, and prosecute hate crimes; and resulted in stronger partnerships to support this work. This documentation will be compiled through required progress reporting, and a final report to be delivered as part of the grant award.

The Goals, Objectives, and Deliverables are directly related to the performance measures that demonstrate the results of the work completed, as discussed under the Application and Submission Information section

Application Review Information

Review Criteria

a. Merit Review Criteria

Applications that meet basic minimum requirements will be evaluated by peer reviewers. Applications will be evaluated on how the proposed project/program addresses the following criteria:

1. Statement of the Problem/Description of the Issue (25%) - evaluate the applicant’s understanding of the program/issue to be addressed.
2. Project Design and Implementation (30%) - evaluate the adequacy of the proposal, including the goals, objectives, timelines, milestones, and deliverables.
3. Capabilities and Competencies (30%) - evaluate administrative and technical capacity of the applicant to successfully accomplish the goals and objectives.
4. Plan for Collecting the Data Required for this Solicitation’s Performance Measures (5%) - evaluate the applicant’s understanding of the performance data reporting requirements and the plan for collecting the required data.
5. Budget (10%) - evaluate for completeness, cost-effectiveness, and allowability (e.g., reasonable, allocable, and necessary for project activities).

b. Other Review Criteria/Factors

Other important considerations for BJA include geographic diversity, strategic priorities (specifically including, but not limited to, those mentioned above relating to priority areas, including strategies to address underreporting), available funding, past performance, and the extent to which the Budget Worksheet and Budget Narrative (web-based form) accurately explain project costs that are reasonable, necessary, and otherwise allowable under federal law and applicable federal cost principles.

Review Process

Applications submitted under this solicitation that meet basic minimum requirements will be evaluated for technical merit by a peer review panel(s) in accordance with OJP peer review policy and procedures using the stated review criteria

OJP screens applications to ensure they meet the basic minimum requirements prior to conducting peer review. Although specific requirements may vary, the following are common requirements applicable to all solicitations for funding under OJP programs:

- The application must be submitted by an eligible type of applicant.
- The application must request funding within programmatic funding constraints (if applicable).
- The application must be responsive to the scope of the solicitation.
- The application must include all items necessary to meet the basic minimum requirements.

Pursuant to the Part 200 Uniform Requirements, before award decisions are made, OJP also reviews information related to the degree of risk posed by the applicant. Among other things to help assess whether an applicant that has one or more prior federal awards has a satisfactory record with respect to performance, integrity, and business ethics, OJP checks whether the applicant is listed in SAM as excluded from receiving a federal award.

In addition, if OJP anticipates that an award will exceed $250,000 in federal funds, OJP also must review and consider any information about the applicant that appears in the non-public segment of the integrity and performance system accessible through SAM (currently, the Federal Awardee Performance and Integrity Information System, FAPIIS).

Important note on FAPIIS: An applicant may review and comment on any information about itself that currently appears in FAPIIS and was entered by a federal awarding agency. OJP will consider any such comments by the applicant, in addition to the other information in FAPIIS, in its assessment of the risk posed by the applicant.

Absent explicit statutory authorization or written delegation of authority to the contrary, all final award decisions will be made by the Assistant Attorney General, who may take into account not only peer review ratings and BJA's recommendations, but also other factors as indicated in this section.
